The Shape of Things to Come

These are exciting times at The Coordinating Center. Just as we are introducing our new corporate symbol, we are also initiating a fundraising campaign to purchase and adapt a new corporate office in Central Maryland. Taken together, the permanence of a headquarters structure and a dramatic new logo symbolize the integrity, stability, and dynamism our organization has come to represent over the past 30 years.

The Meaning behind our New Logo

The mission that has guided us throughout our history is exemplified in the building blocks of our new design. The combined colors and enhanced graphics manifest the energy to evolve, the enthusiasm for innovation, and the pledge to engage in creative ways with the people we are privileged to serve.

The Coordinating Center remains dedicated to its mission of supporting people with the most complex health and social needs as it evolves in new directions in Aging and Health Services, Transitions of Care, and Housing and Community Development. The future beckons with both promise and opportunity.
LETTER FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND THE BOARD PRESIDENT

We are proud to introduce to you—our friends, donors, funders, individuals and families – our new organizational symbol. The purpose of changing this icon is to illustrate the ways in which the organization has broadened its services and has grown in its ability to serve individuals who represent the spectrum of people with disabilities and complex health and social concerns. At the same time, the symbol makes a statement about our stability and continuing commitment to realizing our mission among those with the greatest needs.

You will see this new logo often in the coming weeks and months as we initiate a fundraising project to support the building of a new Central Maryland headquarters – a long held dream of the organization. This new building will allow The Center to better support the people we serve through expanded services and more efficient use of resources. Expanded services are focused particularly on older adults who wish to stay in their own homes as they age, and on families of young children with complex needs struggling to provide their children with the best opportunities in these changing and challenging times.

The new logo infers growth, creativity and vision. More importantly it denotes our fidelity to the mission that has made us strong and that continues to keep us focused on the core work for which we are recognized and valued.

2011 Highlights

The Capital Funding Campaign

The Coordinating Center has taken substantive steps toward achieving what has been a long term goal: the purchase and development of our own headquarters facility in Central Maryland. That vision became closer to reality with the exciting announcement that the Harry and Jeanette Weinberg Foundation has pledged $500,000 in matching grant funds toward this endeavor. We have also been honored to receive funding through successful bond bill initiatives from the State of Maryland, endorsed by members of the General Assembly. These generous gifts demonstrate an informed respect for the value of our work in the community, and confidence in our capacity to efficiently manage these resources and continue our mission to promote health, independence, dignity and quality of life. The Capital Fundraising Campaign will enable us to move to our new headquarters in the Spring of 2013.
The Center’s Housing Initiative has brought the organization national attention by expanding technical assistance through the federal “Community Living Initiative”. This initiative fosters cooperation between federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and Health and Human Services (HHS) Departments. The Center has participated in federal and state level conferences that promoted awareness of each other’s programs. The Center’s effort was highlighted by national presentations of consumer stories that make the transition coordination process come alive. Policy makers were particularly riveted by The Center’s “The Real Story, The True Victory”, a booklet based on the compelling personal stories of consumers who were interviewed for this project.

Other initiatives implemented through The Center’s Community Planning and Housing Development Division included:

- Development of a curriculum and national technical assistance webinar for a national housing voucher webinar to help both consumers and service providers learn how to use this rental subsidy program; the program was focused on individuals with disabilities transitioning from nursing homes to homes in the community
- Provision of technical assistance in numerous states to develop sustainable partnerships between housing and human services on behalf of people with disabilities
- Participation in a Maryland state-wide advisory committee to work on expanding options for affordable housing for people with disabilities

Aging and Health Services

Coordinating Center’s Health and Aging Services is a rapidly expanding division of the organization, with plans to offer care coordination and transitions of care for older adults. In addition, this new division is developing exciting new partnerships to support and promote community living for older adults and to reduce pressures on Medicare funding through strategic care coordination, safe community transitions of care, and avoiding hospital readmissions.

As a part of The Coordinating Center’s Aging and Health Services, OFI completed and disseminated a widely applauded study of attitudes (Stair Glides and Stair Masters) among older adults. This study further bolsters the notion that older adults prefer to live in their communities, preferably in their own homes, with access to supportive services at home and in the community. A second study is presently underway.

Opting for Independence, which has evolved into The Center’s Aging and Health Services Division, is in the final year of its national grant funded project, to promote aging in place in Howard County as a pilot for implementing the program statewide. Funded through the national Administration for Community Living, OFI is one of 14 Community Innovations Projects developed to support aging in place across the United States. The

Community Transitions of Care

Enhancing its proven Care Transitions approach, The Coordinating Center’s care management program for Managed Care Organizations (MCOs) has become a comprehensive, community model for working with MCOs and people with disabilities and complex needs. Through actively building relationships in the public and private sectors, The Coordinating Center and the MCOs have promoted the mutual goal of reducing avoidable hospitalizations for people with chronic illnesses. A further goal is reducing emergency room use in favor of better care at home. The customized plans successfully focuses on the individual’s needs, as well as the family’s culture and values.
2011 By the Numbers

The Model Waiver Program provides comprehensive care coordination statewide among 200 children with complex medical needs and disabilities who are under or uninsured in Maryland. The Rare and Expensive Case Management Program (REM) serves over 1,300 children and adults who are Medicaid eligible and are living with the most challenging health needs and disabilities. Assisting care coordinators working in these two programs, the Infants and Toddlers program serves children needing early intervention services in Prince George’s County and Baltimore City. One hundred fifty seven children with autism and related diagnoses receive service coordination from The Center under the Autism Waiver program in Dorchester, Harford, Howard and Worcester Counties.

The Living at Home Medicaid Waiver program facilitated the transition of 157 people from nursing homes to homes in the community and now provides continuing service coordination to more than 850 people statewide. In this effort, Housing Office staff members were able to use over 100 newly released subsidized housing vouchers for people participating in LAH. The Amerigroup case management program provided complex community care coordination among 196 individuals in Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, Montgomery, and Prince George’s Counties. This program significantly reduced unnecessary emergency department use and hospital readmissions. In Montgomery County, The Center provided service coordination through the Housing Improvement Program (HIP). The Center has also been serving a group of primarily older adults through the state’s new Increased Community Services (ICS) Program, designed to provide nursing facility transition and ongoing care coordination.

The Take A Break Program, with $7500 in grant funds from the Office of Genetics and Children with Special Health Care Needs (Department of Health and Mental Hygiene), was able to fund respite care or enrichment activities for 28 children with special needs living in Anne Arundel County. The Coordinating Center is honored to be a community partner with the HSC Foundation’s LEAP Program. This innovative initiative gives us the opportunity to nominate young people who are transitioning to the next stage of life in the community so that they can receive items or services that will support them to reach their goals. In 2011, The Center was able to provide nine individuals with this critical assistance.

The Family Resource Fund

The Center’s philanthropic arm, the Family Resource Fund, was able to help 66 children and their families through donations from staff members and friends of the organization. To support families in crisis, the Amerigroup Foundation generously contributed $5,000 for the Fund’s use statewide. Other dedicated donors include Mr. and Mrs. John Trumbule, Heather Thompson, and Mark Leiberman. Nancy Gill, memorialized her mother, France Connor Boughter, with a gift to the Fund.
